You are destined for great things.

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the UC Berkeley graduate student community. You are joining a diverse and talented group of students who will become your collaborators, fellow challengers of the status quo, and lifelong friends.

You are destined for great things. It is the Graduate Division’s job to make sure you and your peers have everything you need to do your important work.
There are a handful of things you can do this summer to start preparing for life at UC Berkeley:

- Read the New Graduate Student Guide
- Explore housing options specifically for graduate students
  - Cal Housing, which include facilities that are specifically configured for a graduate student lifestyle.
  - International House
  - Cal Rentals offers resources that will help narrow your search for off-campus rental housing
  - Group housing alternatives, better known as Berkeley "co-ops"
- Save the Date: New Graduate Student Orientation
  - The Graduate Division’s New Graduate Student Orientation will be hosted virtually August 16 – 23, 2022, concluding with in-person community and social events on August 23. Registration is required and will open soon.

I know that’s a lot to take in, but don’t worry: We will send you reminder emails throughout the summer about upcoming deadlines and important resources and you can connect with us virtually on Instagram @ucberkeleygraduate.

The Graduate Division has a number of offices ready to assist you. Find the help you need online through our list of commonly contacted offices. We are so glad you are a part of the UC Berkeley graduate community—and we can’t wait to see all that you will achieve.

Fiat Lux!

Lisa García Bedolla
Vice Provost for Graduate Studies and Dean of Graduate Division
Save the Date

AUG
16 - 23

The Graduate Division’s New Graduate Student Orientation will be hosted virtually August 16 – 23, 2022, concluding with in-person community and social events on August 23.
Registration is required and will open soon.

Tips For New Students
Find guidance and advice for a smooth transition.

Unsubscribe from University of California, Berkeley.