It’s never too early to think about funding your graduate education.

Dear

We want to connect you with every financial resource possible so that you can think less about how you'll fund your experience here, and more about how you'll do your important work.

The nature of funding varies widely, ranging from large competitive fellowships that pay tuition and stipends to academic student employment (Graduate Student Instructor, Researcher, Reader or Tutor) or graduate student researcher appointments to conference travel grants and awards designed to help students manage student loan debt. The Graduate Division can help you navigate your funding options.

To get started:

- Review the information on Financial Aid and Fellowships
- Discuss your funding with your department’s Graduate Student Affairs Officer to plan/understand your years in the program
- Receive Funds Faster: Sign Up for EFT Now!
- Skim the FAQ section
- Learn about Academic Student Employment

You came to UC Berkeley because you have a hunger to push your discipline into uncharted territory. Contact us directly at gradfell@berkeley.edu and we will do everything in our power to help you make that dream a reality.

Ken Mahru
Director of Graduate Student Funding

Save the Date

AUG 15-17

The Graduate Division’s New Graduate Student Orientation will be hosted virtually August 15–17, 2023. Learn more.
Financial Support FAQs
Skim these FAQs for helpful information.